Publication venues include top publication venues in the field of AI and NLP: ICML, ICLR, ACL, EMNLP, and NAACL, and Q1 journals including JAMA Network Open, Communications of the ACM, and New Media & Society.

Associate Professor of Data Science at Monash University, Indonesia (since 18 July 2022), working on natural language processing and machine learning: multilingual and low-resource language technology, the interpretability and controllability of large language models, and AI for high-stakes social domains - democratic discourse and misinformation, health, and law. Trained at Carnegie Mellon University (Ph.D., advisor Tom Mitchell) and the University of Pennsylvania (postdoc, advisor Chris Callison-Burch); previously Assistant Professor of Computer Science at Boston University. Recent work appears at ICML, ICLR, ACL, and EMNLP (2025-2026), including a Best Paper Award at the NLP for Positive Impact Workshop, ACL 2025, and a Best Paper nomination at AI in Education conference (AIED) 2026 (top 0.7% of 1,241 submissions). Career research funding exceeds USD 2.6 million (NSF, DARPA, Google, Danida, Luminate, PAIR), with more than AUD 1.3 million secured since joining Monash Indonesia. Co-founded and co-directs the Monash Data & Democracy Research Hub; program coordinator of the Master of Data Science at Monash University, Indonesia and authored the DIKTI accreditation dossier that secured approval from the Indonesian government of the new Bachelor of IT at Monash University, Indonesia; co-founded the South East Asian Language Processing (SEALP) workshop series; and serves as area chair or senior area chair for ACL, EMNLP, ICLR, and NeurIPS. Has supervised 10 PhD students - 4 completed, now at Google, Scale AI, and Andria Labs - and more than two dozen Master's and undergraduate researchers, with students first-authoring papers at ACL and EMNLP.

NAME

Derry Tanti Wijaya, Ph.D. (publishing as D. Wijaya / D. T. Wijaya; ORCID 0000-0002-0848-4703).

ACADEMIC RECORD

Degrees and when awarded

- Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.), 2016 - Language Technologies Institute, School of Computer Science, Carnegie Mellon University, USA. Advisor: Tom Mitchell. Thesis: VerbKB: A Knowledge Base of Verbs for Natural Language Understanding.
- Master of Science (M.Sc.), 2010 - School of Computing, National University of Singapore. Advisor: Stéphane Bressan.
- Bachelor of Computing (B.Comp.), 2004 - School of Computing, National University of Singapore.

Academic appointments

- Associate Professor, Data Science - Monash University, Indonesia (2022-present).
- Adjunct Professor, Computer Science - Boston University, USA (2022-present).
- Assistant Professor, Computer Science - Boston University, USA (2018-2022).
- Postdoctoral Researcher - Computer & Information Science, University of Pennsylvania, USA (2016-2018). Advisor: Chris Callison-Burch.

DATE JOINED MUI

18 July 2022 - joined Monash University, Indonesia as Associate Professor of Data Science.
